Introduction

The following are the promotional requirements for students ages 5 to 16 for El Toro Judo Club.

The intention is to provide a defined basis for the encouragement and appreciation of the techniques, etiquette and cultural aspects that make up modern day judo.

The syllabus is designed to widen the knowledge of students by adding increasingly difficult techniques that are appropriate for their age and experience. El Toro Judo Club respects the history, development, and evolution of judo and we try to place a certain amount of emphasis on these aspects in our teachings. Students must not only demonstrate the physical techniques of judo, but also have an understanding of Japanese terminology, dojo etiquette, and the principles of judo.

El Toro Judo Club strongly encourages student participation in competition. Many tournaments are held throughout the year in Southern California. Although not required, tournament participation is an important part of the judo curriculum and helps build confidence and maturity in young students. In order to encourage this participation the promotion requirements support both the participation and the success of a student in competition. For those students that do not choose to compete in tournaments, consideration is also given to demonstrating a “fighting spirit” inside the dojo.

El Toro Judo Club will hold promotional exams at intervals that suit the class size and the experience of the students. This generally means that exams will be given several times a year, but in no case fewer than once a year. It is advisable to seek the advice of an instructor for the progress of a student and their suitability for a promotion. The United States Judo Federation (USJF) pocket-sized handbook will be given to students upon receipt of their USJF membership card and will be used to track all promotion history. A small fee will be charged for the replacement of lost books.

A non-refundable exam fee is payable for each promotion event. The instructors will do their best to counsel the students on the knowledge required for the successful promotion to the next rank. However, it is possible to fail the examination. In this case, students will be informed of the areas that were not satisfactory and encouraged to continue practicing. Any exam fees paid will be applied to the student’s next promotion test.

All promotion candidates must be members of the El Toro Judo Club and have paid up membership of the USJF.

In all cases the Head Instructor (Sensei) retains the right to make the final decisions on requirements, examinations, promotions, sequencing, and suitability of a student for promotion.

Notes on Testing Criteria.

This is a brief guideline on the method used when testing students. It is intended that the testing process be a positive reinforcement to the students. We very much want the students to be successful, however this is a test for how well they are learning and progressing so while every encouragement is given to the student the students can fail their test. Testing can be repeated in a few months and their fee goes towards the next test.

A. BASICS

For the basics at lower ranks (9th Kyu and below) basic understanding of principles is all that is necessary. At the higher ranks a better understanding with examples should be given.

Shizentai: at lower rank only Shizen hon tai is needed, at the higher ranks students should demonstrate migi and hidari stances. Explanation of balance is required

Kuzushi: low rank only need to show direction. Higher ranks demonstrate methods of invoking kuzushi to each direction.

Safety: low ranks explain why it is important, and give some simple examples of how to be safe; High ranks need to be more specific. The goal is to see if the student understands the rules of Judo as they apply to safety e.g. Forbidden throws, how to throw safely, taking falls, applying shime waza and armbars etc.

Hygiene: Low ranks an understanding of why this is important. Higher ranks more detail, (some discussion about details will help,.

Kata: At 7th Kyu Nage-no-kata is introduced. At this level a basic understanding and appreciation of the kata is required at 6th Kyu and higher cleaner demonstration is necessary

Refereeing: At 7th Kyu and above the student has to show skill in understanding and applying the contest rules of judo. The students are expected to be able to perform the duties of a line judge initially and then at 5th Kyu be able to referee a contest. The student will be expected to understand the different scoring levels and penalties and demonstrate the proper hand signals. Please refer to Appendix D for information on Refereeing.

B. TACHI WAZA

For Tachi Waza demonstrations some minor allowances are made for age (and special needs).

The scores are marked as a percentage, with a perfect execution of a technique being 100%. The target passing grades represent the expected ability of a student at a particular level. In this way improvement in technique from rank to rank can be measured. For example a student demonstrating a throw as a Brown belt would be expected to have a much higher score than when it was demonstrated as a lower rank. The following points are looked for in a Tachi Waza demonstration

1. Setup – Tori has to set up the throw correctly – right grips, right moves etc
2. Kuzushi – is it present, if it is how effective did it seem
3. Tsukuri – is it present, was it effective
4. Kake – was the throw clean, or did uke just tumble

C. NE WAZA

The same evaluation principles as used for Tachi Waza is applied to the Ne Waza demonstrations. The key points looked for are:

Oesakomi waza:

Method of entry: Should be clean and no confusion.

Good position: Should show the correct method of holding.

Good control: Should show proper positioning and method of keeping the hold with uke trying to escape.

Shime-waza and Kansetsu-waza:

Method of entry: Should be clean and no confusion.

Good position: Should show the correct method of application.

Good control: Should show proper control.

Appendix B - Tachi Waza Requirements

Tachi-waza requirements are based upon the 40 throws of the Gokyo-no-waza. The Gokyo is an authoritative set of throwing techniques in judo. The Gokyo is divided into five groups of eight throws each and was part of the original syllabus of the Kodokan. By adopting the Gokyo as part of its syllabus, El Toro Judo Club is showing its respect for the origins and fundamentals of Kodokan Judo.

In addition to the five sets of the Gokyo we have added a sixth set which contains eight techniques that have been selected from the Shinmeisho No Waza (newly accepted techniques) of the Kodokan. The Shinmeisho No Waza was defined initially in 1982 and updated in 1997. The Gokyo and the Shinmeisho No Waza define the 68 officially recognized techniques of the Kodokan.

Promotion requires the student to choose and learn throws from the different Gokyo sets. The choice of techniques is based upon the student's preference and abilities. Progression through the ranks requires the student to demonstrate improved expertise with their chosen techniques.

Appendix D - What to Expect at a Judo Tournament

© Bob Willingham

As you progress in judo you will want to test your skills against the abilities of others of your own age, weight, and skill level. A judo tournament is the place to do this. Tournaments are hosted and organized by local clubs and national organizations.

A typical tournament day begins with registration and weigh-ins. Registrations are often held in the morning before the tournament, usually from 8:00 am to 10:00 am. Some events require pre-registration by mail several weeks prior to the tournament. Usually there is a small fee required to enter the tournament. Make sure to bring your Judo membership card. Minors entering tournaments will require permission from a parent or legal guardian in the form of a signature on the registration form. Registration details are found on the tournament notice which is sent to clubs in advance.

After all contestants have registered, the tournament officials will set up the draw to decide who fights who. Tournament draws are set up so that you will fight people of your own age, weight, and experience level. Details of the age, weight and experience divisions are found on the tournament notice.

When the tournament begins, an official will announce the names of the people fighting in a division. Since there is often more than one fighting area, you will be directed to the mat area where your division will be competing. A worker at the mat area will identify the next two contestants. One will be given a blue belt (worn around the waist) and/or be asked to wear a blue judogi.

Competitors bow before entering the competition area. They walk to the outside edge of the contest area (outside edge of the red mats) on their respective sides (white side/blue side) and bow again. They proceed to their lines. Then they face each other and bow together to each other. They then take one step forward and stand inside their lines with their hands at their sides and their feet apart. This shows that they are ready to begin. The referee shall announce "hajime" (begin) and the contestants will begin. Each time matte (wait) is called they return to their spots inside their lines. When the referee calls soremade (that is all), they return to their positions and await the decision. When the referee awards the match, they each step back behind their line, and bow together. They leave the competition area the same way they came, bowing again at the edge of the contest area (the outside edge of the red area).

When a contestant scores ippon, the referee shall announce, "ippon, soremade". An ippon, or full point, immediately ends the match (like a pin in wrestling, or a knock-out in boxing). The contestant scoring ippon is the winner. An ippon can be scored in both tachi-waza (standing) and ne-waza (groundwork).

Ippon is scored when: A contestant with control throws the other contestant largely on his back with considerable force and speed; or a contestant holds with osaekomi-waza the other contestant, who is unable to get away for 25 seconds after the announcement of osaekomi (osaekomi to be covered later); or a contestant gives up by tapping twice or more with his hand or foot or says "matte" (I give up), generally as a result of a grappling technique, shime-waza (strangle) or kansetsu-waza (armlock); or the effect of a strangle technique or arm lock is apparent to the referee.

Should one contestant be penalized "hansoku make" the other contestant shall be declared the winner. Should a contestant score two waza-ari's (or equivalent: waza-ari + 3 minor penalties for the opponent) he shall be declared the winner by ippon.

Waza-ari is scored when: A contestant throws the other contestant with control, but the technique is partially lacking one of the elements necessary for ippon, or a contestant holds with osaekomi-waza the other contestant who is unable to get away for 20 seconds or more, but less than 25 seconds.

Should one contestant be penalized shido three times, the other contestant shall receive waza-ari immediately.

Yuko is scored when: A contestant with control throws the other contestant, but the technique is partially lacking two of the other three elements necessary for ippon, or a contestant holds with osaekomi-waza the other contestant who is unable to get away for 15 seconds or more, but less than 20 seconds.

Should one contestant be penalized shido two times, the other contestant shall immediately receive yuko.

Koka is scored when: A contestant with control throws the other contestant onto his thigh(s), or buttocks with speed and force, or a contestant holds with osaekomi-waza the other contestant who is unable to get away for 10 seconds or more, but less than 15 seconds.

Should one contestant be penalized shido, the other contestant shall immediately receive koka.

If ippon is not scored, the winner of the match shall be the contestant who has scored the most of the point which holds the highest value (for example waza-ari is higher than yuko which is higher than koka). If one contestant has two yukos and the other contestant 1 yuko and 6 kokas, the contestant with two yukos (the greater number of the larger point) will be declared the winner. If the score is even at the end of the time allowed for a match, usually there will be a Golden Score period where the timer will be reset and the first contestant to score any point wins. If there is no score at the end of the Golden Score period then the referee and judges will decide the winner. They will signal their choice for winner by raising either a blue or white flag (corresponding to the blue and white sash or gi worn by the competitors). All decisions are decided by "majority of three" (i.e. at least two of the three officials).

Osaekomi - The referee shall announce osaekomi when the contestant being held is controlled by his opponent. He must have his back, both shoulders, or one shoulder in contact with the mat. Control can be made from the side, from the rear, or from the top. The contestant applying the hold must not have his leg(s) or body controlled by his opponent's legs and at least one contestant must have any part of his body touching the contest area at the announcement of osaekomi. Should any one of these criteria not be met after the announcement of osaekomi, the referee shall immediately call toketa and the hold will be considered broken.

Sonomama - If at any time the referee announces "sonomama" (freeze, he will place one of his hands on each contestant as he calls sonomama) the contestants will immediately stop, and "freeze" in whatever position they are in. When he wishes the action to continue, the referee will apply pressure down with his hands on each contestant, and call yoshi (continue) as he lifts his hands from the contestants.

Matte - When matte (wait) is called, the contestants shall come back to their positions in front of their lines and await the announcement of hajime (begin) to continue.

In Bounds, Out of Bounds - The red mat is called the danger zone. It is a border between the contest area and the safety area. The red mat is included in the contest area and should therefore be considered in bounds. In tachi-waza (standing), if one contestant puts weight on any part of his body completely out of bounds (i.e. not touching the red mat) he is considered out of bounds. Tori may however receive points for techniques begun in bounds if uke steps out of bounds before being thrown as long as tori's action is one continuous attack, and tori remains in bounds until the effectiveness of his actions becomes apparent. Uke can not escape a throw by putting a foot down out of bounds.

In ne-waza (groundwork) both contestants must be all the way out of bounds (i.e. no part of either contestants body touching the contest area) to be considered out of bounds.

If you have any questions about tournament procedures ask your sensei or an experienced competitor. They will be glad to answer any of your questions

Appendix E - Referee Hand Signals and scoring

Ippon	Waza-ari	Waza-ari awasete ippon	Yuko

Koka	Osaekomi	Toketa	Adjust judogi

Are there partial scores?

Yes, for throws and pins. Naturally on submissions it is either success or failure. In each bout, however, it is the highest quality score that wins; they have no equal in quality before number is taken into account. With throws, partial scores are given if the opponent does not land largely on the back, or not hard or fast enough, but still have some of the required qualities. Pins that are broken before 25 seconds, but after 10 seconds are also awarded partial points.

How Can You Tell a Technique's Score?

Watch the center referee's hand signal (see above) and listen to the call. The higher the signaling arm, the higher the score. The scores, in order from highest to lowest quality are; Ippon, Waza-ari, Yuko and Koka.

Who is ahead?

There should be one or two scoreboards to show the state of play. Because in Judo it is always the highest quality score that wins, the scoreboard is laid out left to right to show the scores like three-digit numbers. Looked at in this way the scoreboard below represents a score of 100 to 10. With Blue having the 'higher' score. Blue's single waza-ari beats white's yuko. In this example the yellow circle over Blue indicates that the yuko awarded to white is a result of a penalty being awarded against Blue. Penalties are accumulative and if Blue were to incur another penalty, the indicator would move to the left (to over the waza-ari).

MEN CATEG.			●
	I	W	Y	K
- 100 KG.

If an Ippon has not been scored by the end of the time limit and the scores are equal, the bout goes into Golden Score. This is an extension to the bout equal in time to the original bout duration. During this period the bout stops when a competitor makes any score or penalty awarded. The winner will be the recipient of the score. If at the end of the Golden Score period there is still no score the referee and judges decide who is the winner using a majority decision.
